

Fragments from Forests and Libraries

*Carolina Academic Press
Ritual Studies Monographs*

Pamela J. Stewart
and
Andrew Strathern
Series Editors

Fragments from Forests and Libraries

A Collection of Essays by Valerio Valeri

Edited by Janet Hoskins

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
Durham, North Carolina

Copyright © 2001
Valerio Valeri
All rights reserved.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Valeri, Valerio.

Fragments from forests and libraries : a collection of essays / by Valerio Valeri.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references.

ISBN 0-89089-979-7

1. Ethnology. 1. Title.

GN325 V25 2001

305.8—dc21

00-054174

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
700 Kent Street
Durham, North Carolina 27701
Telephone (919) 489-7486
Fax (919) 493-5668
www.cap-press.com

Printed in the United States of America

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Preface	xiii
Series Editors' Preface	xxi

Religion and Exchange

Chapter 1. Feasting and Festivity translated from the Italian by Sarah Hill	1
1. The End of Feasting	1
2 Theory of the Feast	3
2.1 The Feast as Transgression	3
2.2 The Feast as Spontaneous Production of Society	4
3. The Essence of the Feast	6
 Chapter 2. The Fetish translated from the Italian by Sarah Hill	 15
1. Word Association and the History of Ideas	15
2. Four Theories of Fetishism	16
2.1. De Brosses	16
2.2. Comte	18
2.3. Marx	19
2.4 Freud	22
3. Comparison of the Paradigms	25
4. The System and the Fetish	26
 Chapter 3. Belief and Worship translated from the Italian by Lynn Westwater	 33
1. Introduction	33
2. The Category "Belief"	34
3. Intellect and Symbol	38
4. Ritual, Worship and Sacred Beings	46
5. Forms of Worship and Belief	50

vi · Contents

Chapter 4. The Solomon Islands Discovered by the Europeans: From the Social Contract to Utilitarianism translated from the Italian by Lynn Westwater	57
Exchange and Communication	62
Power	74
Morte	82
Gifts and Contracts
Chapter 5. Parts and Wholes: Social and Conceptual Dualism in the Central Moluccas	93
2. Dualism at the Local Level: Huaulu and Piliana	94
3. Dualism at the Regional Level: the Siwa/Lima Organization as a Political Fact	103
4. The Siwa/Lima Ideology in Ambon	111
5. Aspects of the Siwa/Lima Ideology in Central and Western Seram	119
Conclusion	126
Chapter 6. Notes on the Meaning of Marriage Prestations among the Huaulu of Seram	137
Dualism and Asymmetry	137
Arata and the Rules for Its Circulation	139
Marriage Payments and Rules for Affiliation	142
The Hierarchy of Alliances and the Political Implications of Prestations	145
Arata as Sumbolon: The Pleasure of Exchange	148
Chapter 7. Buying Women But Not Selling Them: Gift and Commodity Exchange in Hualulu Alliance	153
Purchase and Prestation	155
Give-and-Take	159
Affinity and Affinal Transactions	161
Alliance as Dialectical Process	167
Conclusion: For a Dialectic of “Gifts” and “Commodities”	174
Chapter 8. Both Nature and Culture: Reflections on Menstrual and Parturitional Taboos in Huaulu (Seram)	187
The Huaulu of Central Seram	188
Equality and Inequality	190
Symmetrical and Asymmetrical Pollution	193

Contents vii

Hot and Cold	201
Nature and Culture	208
Conclusion	216

Bloods and Sacrifices

Chapter 9. Those Who Have Seen Blood: The Memory Of Sacrifice In Huaulu Initiation	223
Initiation Today	224
Narrated Past and Impoverished Present	235
Manhood and the Knowledge of Death	239
Chapter 10. Wild Victims: Hunting as Sacrifice and Sacrifice as Hunting in Huaulu	249
The Problem of Sacrifice	249
Hunting and Sacrifice	261
Hunting as Sacrifice	265
Sacrifice as Hunting	277
The Spectrum of Sacrifice	286
Chapter 11. Autonomy and Heteronomy in the Kahua Ritual: A Short Meditation on Huaulu Society	289
Autonomy and Heteronomy in Huaulu Society	291
The Kahua	294
Some Interpretive Remarks	299

Time and Collecting

Chapter 12. Temporal Forms of Society: Chronological and Subjective Time, Mythical and Historical Time among the Huaulu (Eastern Indonesia) translated from the French by Janet Hoskins	311
Huaulu Society	313
Huaulu Forms of Time	315
Conclusion: Society and Temporality	325
Chapter 13. Prometheus In The Rainforest; Does Collecting Exist In Huaulu?	333

viii · Contents

Knowledge and Self Knowledge

Chapter 14. 'Our Ancestors Spoke Little': Knowledge and Social Forms in Huaulu	349
On Knowledge and Culture	349
Huaulu Polyglossia	356
Genres of Knowledge and Their Linguistic Correlates	357
'Central' and 'Peripheral' Knowledge	361
Conclusion	363
 Chapter 15. On the Train to Chicago, via Paris: Confessions of an Idiosyncratic Anthropologist	 369
 Chapter 16. Fieldwork Yesterday and Today: The Future of Anthropologists Translated from the Italian by Janet Hoskins	 383
 Index	 401

List of Illustrations

The Moluccas in the 17th and 18th centuries during the Spice Trade	97
An 18th century image of the “Alfuru” people of the interior of Seram	102
18th century French map of the Moluccas, showing Seram as unexplored	105
Hand-drawn map of Central Seram used in 1971	108
A boat discharging passengers at the coastal settlement of Alakamat	112
Huauulu houses on lower piles in the sand at Alakamat	116
The Huauulu village seen from a mountain ridge	119
The broad clearing at the entrance to the Huauulu village	121
The village temple or big house (luma poto) in 1972	124
The house built for Valerio and Renée by the Huauulu in 1972	128
A Huauulu woman sitting in her kitchen	140
Pinarola sweeping the veranda of the village temple in 1985	144
Pinarola filling bamboo poles with water to carry home for cooking (JH)	149
Young children and babies often sleep in a sling over the veranda	158
Firewood is carried exclusively by women and children, here, Pinarola (JH)	163
Husband and wife (Limule and Pinarola) weaving baskets (JH)	169
A grandmother cuddles her sick grandchild	172
Alimau showing Janet Hoskins how to trap shrimp on the Sapulewa river	176
The meal Alimau has prepared of sago porridge, boiled bananas, and shrimp (JH)	190
Ivory armshells stored on a stick for a marriage negotiation	198
Pinarola being deloused by her daughter Sipinalu in the village temple (JH)	203
The menstrual hut (lilipossu) stands outside the village on a small incline (JH)	211

x · List of Illustrations

Menstruating women sit near the hearth and must observe food taboos (JH)	215
Limule whittling an arrow to prepare for hunting (JH)	226
A hunting party fires off arrows across the Sapulewa River	229
A deer is butchered and some parts are cooked immediately in the forest	232
Venison is prepared to bring back to the village	234
The initiates did not wear any Western clothing at the 1973 Kahua	238
A young initiate comes down to dance with a toy sword	239
Two young boys dance together at the 1973 initiation	243
A new house is constructed by a work team of relatives (JH)	252
Limule would usually sleep on the veranda of the village temple house (JH)	259
Men (here, Valerio) are served first when food is brought out (JH)	263
A cassowary caught in the forest and raised for re-sale (JH)	266
Parrots are often domesticated in the house and taught to speak (JH)	269
Limule playing a stringed fiddle in the village temple	271
Pulaki, the village temple guardian in 1972, crossing the Sapulewa River	274
Pitere and Latumulan sitting on the veranda and chewing betel	275
Pulaki (in the foreground) talking to other men before a hunting trip	281
Valerio typing field notes at his “desk” in the village temple (JH)	285
Portrait of a young boy with his head wrapped in a cloth for a headache	286
Baskets prepared to hold betel for guests at the 1988 Kahua feast	293
Baskets prepared to hold gifts of food and cloth for the 1988 Kahua	296
Drums lined up in the village temple to be played at the 1988 Kahua	299
Pulaki inaugurates the 1973 feast by beating the drum	303
Male dancers do a war dance (usali) at the entrance to the village in 1988	313
The dancers on the first day of the 1988 Kahua ceremony	316
Male dancers wear feathered headdresses and hold spears inlaid with shells	319
The circle dance performed with men and women holding hands	323

List of Illustrations xi

Young boys start playing with bows and arrows as soon as they can walk	338
Limule replacing sago palm fronds in the roof of the village temple (JH)	343
A mixture of traditional dress and modern costume at the 1988 circle dance	344
Valerio practicing the bow and arrow in the village (JH)	347
An older man confers with the shaman for a diagnosis of afflicting spirits (JH)	353
Private conferences are conducted under an opened headcloth (JH)	356
Some piece of the affliction can be “sucked out” or massaged away (JH)	359
An older shaman “blesses” his younger colleagues (JH)	373
Drums are played to accompany the singing (JH)	377
Valerio taping the shamanic seance (JH)	380
A young shaman entering into trance and dancing (JH)	387
Several shamans “receiving the sewaem”, who come down into their heads (JH)	393
A line of shamans dancing together and singing in complex polyphony (JH)	397

All photographs were taken by Valerio Valeri, except those marked (JH), which were taken by Janet Hoskins