Series Note

The Legal Research Series published by Carolina Academic Press includes an increasing number of titles from states around the country. The goal of each book is to provide law students, practitioners, paralegals, college students, and laypeople with the essential elements of legal research in each state. Unlike more bibliographic texts, the Legal Research Series books seek to explain concisely both the sources of state law research and the process for conducting legal research effectively.

Acknowledgments

This work, as part of a series of state legal research texts, draws on Oregon Legal Research for much of its organization and content, and we thank Suzanne Rowe for permission to draw on her excellent and inspiring work. We also thank our supportive and insightful colleagues at the University of Tennessee College of Law, with special thanks to Patti Ogden for her technical wizardry and crack citation formatting skills; to Reba Best, Cheryn Picquet, and Loretta Price, for guidance on numerous questions of style and substance; and to Jean Moore for her keen and careful work in reviewing and commenting on several of the chapters. Our series editor, Suzanne Rowe, not only allowed us to draw from her book but made this work immeasurably better through her editing. Finally, research assistants Corinne Martin and Harvey Rogers worked painstakingly and diligently in proofreading, verifying, correcting, and updating the manuscript and we gratefully acknowledge their help.
