Series Editor's Foreword

The Carolina Academic Press Mastering Series is designed to provide you with a tool that will enable you to easily and efficiently “master” the substance and content of law school courses. Throughout the series, the focus is on quality writing that makes legal concepts understandable. As a result, the series is designed to be easy to read and is not unduly cluttered with footnotes or cites to secondary sources.

In order to facilitate student mastery of topics, the Mastering Series includes a number of pedagogical features designed to improve learning and retention. At the beginning of each chapter, you will find a “Roadmap” that tells you about the chapter and provides you with a sense of the material that you will cover. A “Checkpoint” at the end of each chapter encourages you to stop and review the key concepts, reiterating what you have learned. Throughout the book, key terms are explained and emphasized. Finally, a “Master Checklist” at the end of each book reinforces what you have learned and helps you identify any areas that need review or further study.

We hope that you will enjoy studying with, and learning from, the Mastering Series.

Preface

I thank my colleagues Donna Harkness, William Kratzke, Janet Richards, Dorothy Wells, and Nicholas White for their insightful comments and suggestions on drafts of various chapters of this book. I am grateful to Richard Townley and Shannon Wiley for their research assistance and to Cheryl Foshee Edwards for her administrative assistance.

I also thank the students in my Elder Law classes at the University of Memphis. Their passion and commitment provide a constant source of inspiration. Their interest and curiosity provide a constant opportunity to learn new things and to see old things afresh. Their stories and the stories of their families provide a constant reminder of the increasing importance of Elder Law and of the need for lawyers to serve America's growing elderly population.
