

Comparative and International Policing, Justice, and Transnational Crime

Edited by

Sesha Kethineni

PROFESSOR, DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE SCIENCES,
ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS

Durham, North Carolina

Copyright © 2010
Sesha Kethineni
All Rights Reserved

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Kethineni, Sesha.

Comparative and international policing, justice, and transnational crime /
Sesha Kethineni.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-59460-664-9 (alk. paper)

1. Law enforcement. 2. Criminal justice, Administration of. 3. Transnational crime. I. Title.

K3465.K483 2010
345'.05--dc22

2009048887

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
700 Kent Street
Durham, North Carolina 27701
Telephone (919) 489-7486
Fax (919) 493-5668
www.cap-press.com

Printed in the United States of America

Contents

Acknowledgments	xvii
Notes on Contributors	xix
Chapter 1 • Theories of International Justice and International Law: A Call for International Individual Rights	3
Gabriel Rubin
Introduction	3
Rawls's The Law of Peoples : A First Encounter	5
Four Problems with Deriving Fundamental Rights at the Group Level	6
Should There Be an Individual Right to Democracy?	13
Rawls's The Law of Peoples : Decent versus Liberal Peoples	15
Decent Societies and Human Rights	18
Toleration, Liberalism, and Democracy	21
Conclusion	22
Web Sources	24
Discussion Questions	24
References	24
Chapter 2 • The New Sovereignty: International Regulatory Agencies and Enforcement	27
Obi N. I. Ebbe
Introduction	27
The Treaty of Versailles	28
League of Nations	28
Precursor to the League of Nations	28
The Emergence of the League of Nations	29
The International Regulatory Agencies under the United Nations	30
UN Agencies Related to Criminology and Criminal Justice	32
International Organization for Migration (IOM)	32

UN Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute (UNICRI)	33
International Scientific and Professional Advisory Council of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programmes (ISPAC)	33
UN Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC)	34
Office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR)	34
UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC)	35
International Court of Justice (ICJ)	35
International Criminal Court (ICC)	36
Origins and Development of the ICC	36
Signatories to ICC	37
Jurisdiction of the ICC	37
Genocide	38
Crimes against Humanity	38
War Crimes	39
Limitations and Autonomy of the ICC	40
How Cases Reach the ICC	41
Treaties	43
Bilateral and Multilateral Treaties	43
UN Treaties in Organized Crime and Narcotics	43
Sanctions	44
The Role of Nongovernmental Organization (NGO)	46
Conclusion	47
Web Sources	47
Discussion Questions	48
References	48
Chapter 3 • Sovereign Lawlessness: Renditions and Co-Mingling of Criminal Justice and Military Justice	55
Sesha Kethineni and Rebecca Lawson
Introduction: Renditions	55
Historical Overview	55
International Overview	56
Extent of the Problem	60
Fallout for CIA Agents	63
The Role of Other Countries	64
The Opposition	65

Co-Mingling of Criminal Justice and Military Justice	67
Historical Overview	67
Conclusion	71
Web Sources	73
Discussion Questions	74
References	74
Chapter 4 • Justice Systems in Selected Countries	79
Philip L. Reichel
Introduction	79
Four Legal Traditions	80
Common Legal Tradition	80
Civil Legal Tradition	81
Socialist Legal Tradition	82
Islamic Legal Tradition	83
Substantive and Procedural Criminal Law	84
Substantive Criminal Law	84
Procedural Criminal Law	85
Justice Systems in Common-Law Countries	87
England and Wales	87
India	90
Justice Systems in Civil-Law Countries	92
France	93
Germany	94
Justice Systems in a Socialist Law Country	96
People's Republic of China	96
Justice Systems in an Islamic Law Country	97
Saudi Arabia	98
Conclusion	100
Web Sources	100
Discussion Questions	100
References	101
Chapter 5 • The Roles of International Justice Organizations	105
Donna Vandiver and J.D. Jamieson
Introduction	105
A History of Modern Attempts to Settle International Disputes Peacefully	106
The International Court of Justice	108
Key Features of the International Court of Justice	108

Jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice	109
Trial Procedures and Resolution of Contentious Cases	109
Recent and Ongoing Cases between Member States	110
Belgium v. Senegal (Ongoing Case)	111
Ecuador v. Colombia (Ongoing Case)	111
Georgia v. The Russian Federation (2008)	111
Advisory Proceedings	112
The Permanent International Criminal Court	112
Key Features of the International Criminal Court	113
Jurisdiction, Organization, and Administration of the International Criminal Court	113
Trial Procedures and Resolution of Cases	117
Responsibilities of Member States and “States Parties”	118
Current Cases in the International Criminal Court	119
Special Issues of International Courts	120
Conclusion	121
Web Sources	123
Discussion Questions	123
References	124
Chapter 6 • International Law Enforcement Organizations	127
Mathieu Deflem and Shannon McDonough
Introduction	127
The History of International Policing	127
Contemporary Dimensions of International Policing	131
Forms	131
Organizations	132
Activities	133
Interpol: The International Criminal Police Organization	137
Europol: The European Police Office	141
Conclusion	144
Web Sources	145
Discussion Questions	146
References	146
Chapter 7 • Policing in Selected Countries: Organization and Structure	149
Harry Dammer
Introduction	149
Policing in a Common Law Country: England	151

Historical Background	151
Organization, Structure, and Training	152
Current Issues of Concern for the Police in England	154
Policing in a Common Law Country: India	155
Historical Background	155
Organization, Structure, and Training	156
Current Issues of Importance for the Police in India	157
Policing in a Civil Law Country: France	159
Historical Background	159
Structure, Organization, and Training	160
Current Issues of Concern for French Police	162
Policing in a Civil Law Country: Germany	162
Historical Background	162
Organization, Structure, and Training	163
Current Issues of Concern for German Police	166
Policing in Socialist Law Countries: China	167
Historical Background	167
Structure, Organization, and Training	168
Issues of Concern for Chinese Police	169
Policing in Islamic Law Countries: Saudi Arabia	170
Historical Background	170
Organization, Structure, and Training	171
Current Issues of Concern for Saudi Police	172
Web Sources	173
Discussion Questions	173
References	174
Chapter 8 • Policing Subordinate Sovereignities: Policing in Democratic Societies	177
L. Edward Wells
Introduction	177
Policing in Neocolonial Societies	179
Autocratic Policing of Indigenous Peoples	181
Neocolonial Policing of American Indians in the United States	183
The Vassal State Era (late 1770s–1820s)	186
The Removal Era (1830s–1840s)	187
The Enculturation Era (1850s–early 1880s)	188
The Allotment Era (late 1880s–1920s)	190
The Reorganization Era (1930s–1940s)	192

The Termination Era (late 1940s–early 1960s)	193
The Self-Determination Era (late 1960s–present)	194
Contemporary Forms of Tribal Policing	197
Conclusion	200
Web Sources	201
Discussion Questions	202
References	202
Legislation	204
Chapter 9 • International Crimes: Jus Cogens and Obligatio Erga Omnes	207
Jessie L. Krienert, Jeffrey A. Walsh, and Kevin Matthews
Introduction	207
Jus Cogens	208
Obligatio Erga Omnes	208
Maritime Piracy	209
History	210
Legal Issues: Universal Jurisdiction and Jus Cogens	211
Piracy Today	212
Crimes against Humanity	214
Apartheid	215
Enforced Disappearances	217
An Argentinean Example	217
Legal Ramifications	219
Gendercide	219
Slavery and Human Trafficking	222
Becoming a Victim	223
Key Players in the Trade	224
Sex Trafficking	225
Sex Tourism	226
The International Organ Trade and Transplant Tourism	228
Slavery	229
Involuntary Servitude	231
Legal Response and Universal Jurisdiction	232
Conclusion	233
Web Sources	233
Discussion Questions	234
References	234

Chapter 10 • International Human Rights Movement	243
Satenik Margaryan
Introduction	243
The History of Human Rights	244
The History of International Human Rights Movement	247
The International Bill of Rights	252
The Universal Declaration of Human Rights	252
International Covenant on Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights	258
International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights	260
Other International Human Rights Instruments and Bodies	262
Conclusion	264
Web Sources	265
Discussion Questions	265
References	265
Chapter 11 • War Crimes: International Response to Genocide	269
Ralph Weisheit
Introduction	269
Genocide as an International Crime	270
Genocide: Limits of the Legal Definition	271
Genocide and War Crimes	273
Bosnia-Herzegovina (1992–95)	275
The Aftermath of Genocide in Bosnia	279
Rwanda (1994)	280
The Aftermath of Genocide in Rwanda	283
Sudan (2003–present)	284
Conclusion	288
Web Sources	290
Discussion Questions	290
References	290
Chapter 12 • Specific Crimes against Humanity: Groups and Minority Rights	295
Sesha Kethineni and Gail Humiston
Introduction: The Status of Dalits (Untouchables in India)	295
Existing Conditions of Dalits	297
Education	297
Employment Opportunities	297

Migration	298
Specific Instances of Abuse	298
Land Dispute	298
Lack of Civic Facilities	299
The Dalit Rights Movement	299
Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights	301
Empirical Conceptualization of ESC Rights	301
Individual versus Collective Rights	302
India's Efforts to Fulfill Its Commitment to Human Rights	302
Implementation and Enforcement of Laws and Policies	303
Recommendations	309
Racial Discrimination of Roma/Gypsies of Europe	314
Specific Instances of Violence	317
Social, Economic, and Cultural Discriminations and Recommendations	318
Web Sources: Dalits	322
Discussion Questions	322
References	323
Chapter 13 • International Terrorism	329
Jeffrey Ian Ross and Michael Stohl
Introduction	329
Defining Terrorism	330
Types of Terrorism	331
Tracing the Historical Trajectory and Contemporary Trends	332
Introduction	332
The 1980s: State-Sponsored, Religious Fundamentalist, and Single-Issue Terrorism	333
The 1990s: Narco-Terrorism	334
The 2000s: Dark Networks	334
Contemporary Trends in Terrorism	335
Data Sources	335
Annual Statistics of International Events	336
Geographic Spread	337
Targets	337
Tactics	338
Terrorist Groups	339
Combating Terrorism	339
Introduction	339
Contextual Issues	340

Problems in Combating Terrorism	342
Typical Measures	342
Successes and/or Failures in Fighting Terrorism at Home and Abroad	344
The Future of Terrorism	344
Future Causes of Terrorism	345
Future Perpetrators	345
Future Targets	346
Solutions	346
What Won't Help?	346
What May Help?	347
Tolerating Terrorism	348
Web Sources	349
Discussion Questions	349
References	350
Chapter 14 • International Drug Trafficking	355
Melanie-Angela Neuilly
Introduction	355
International Drug Trafficking and Consumption Patterns and Trends	355
Drug Consumption	356
Markets	357
Cultivation and Transportation Pattern Changes	358
Opium	358
Coca	359
Cannabis	360
Amphetamine-Type Stimulants	361
Drug Trafficking as Business	361
Organized Crime and Drug Trafficking	361
Colombian Drug Cartels	362
The Case of Mexico	363
The United Wa State Army and the Golden Triangle	364
The Structure of the Drug Trafficking Industry	365
Modeling the Drug Trafficking Industry	366
Responses to the Drug Problem	367
A Brief History of International Drug Control	367
Institutions of Monitoring, Control, and Enforcement	374
International Level	375
Commission on Narcotic Drugs (CND)	375

Financial Action Task Force on Money-Laundering (FATF)	375
International Narcotics Control Board (INCB)	375
Interpol	375
UN Office on Drugs and Crime	376
World Customs Organization (WCO)	376
World Health Organization (WHO)	376
Regional Level	376
Association of Southeast Asian States, ASEAN Senior Officials on Drug Matters (ASOD)	376
Organization of American States (OAS), Inter-American Drug Abuse Control Commission (CICAD)	377
European Union, European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA)	377
Europol	377
National Level: The United States	377
Range of Responses to the Drug Problem: Looking to the Future	378
The Confusing Case of European Extremes	379
U.S. Policy	380
Web Sources	380
Discussion Questions	381
References	382
Chapter 15 • International Crimes: Cyber Crime, Crimes against Cultural Heritage, Environmental Crimes, and Money Laundering	385
Murugesan Srinivasan, Solomon Raja Pandian, and Arockiasamy Enoch
Introduction	385
Cyber Crime	386
Nature and Magnitude of Cyber Crime	389
Global Initiatives to Deal with Cyber Crime	391
Characteristics of Computer Criminals	392
Crimes against Cultural Heritage	393
Crimes against Cultural Heritage: Scope of the Problem	393
Challenges in Dealing with Crimes against Cultural Heritage	394
Environmental Crimes	395
Environmental Crimes: Its Gravity	395
Global Response to Deal with Environmental Crimes	397
Money Laundering vis-à-vis International Crimes	398

Initiatives of the International Community to Combat Money Laundering	399
Conclusion	401
Web Sources	402
Discussion Questions	402
References	403
Index	409

Acknowledgments

First, I would like to thank two very important people in my life—my daughter, Gowtami, and my sister, Usha Chandrasekar—who are always supportive of everything I do. I am also grateful to all of the contributors who have made this endeavor possible. In particular, I would like to thank my mentor, Professor Freda Adler, who has been my inspiration since I received my Ph.D. about 20 years ago and my two best friends, Lois Guyon and Ruth Fennick, for being my confidants and supporters. I would also like to extend my appreciation to David J. Estrin, a freelance editorial consultant, for offering valuable suggestions. Finally, I would like to extend my appreciation to my graduate student, Jeremy Braithwaite, and my graduate assistant, Marat Abdukarimov, for their comments and support on this work.

Notes on Contributors

Harry R. Dammer is Professor and Chair of the Sociology and Criminal Justice at the University of Scranton. He received his Ph.D. from the Rutgers University School of Criminal Justice. He is the author of a book, Religion in Corrections (1999) and co-author of Comparative Criminal Justice (2006) and The Offender in the Community (2003). He has also published or co-published numerous articles, manuals, and professional reports on a variety of criminal justice topics. In 2009, he was a visiting professor at Ruhr-Bochum University in Germany under the auspices of his second Fulbright Grant. He is the former Chair of the International Section of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (March 2003 to March 2004).

Mathieu Deflem is an Associate Professor at the University of South Carolina. He received his Ph.D. in 1996 from the University of Colorado. His areas of expertise include international policing, terrorism and counter-terrorism, law, and theory. He has published dozens of articles in a wide variety of journals and books, and is the author of The Policing of Terrorism (2020), Sociology of Law (2008), and Policing World Society (2002).

Obi N. I. Ebbe is a Professor of Criminology and Sociology at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. He received his Ph.D. in Sociology from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1981. He has published numerous articles in refereed academic journals, and has also published five books, including Comparative and International Criminal Justice Systems: Policing, Judiciary, and Corrections (2000); Global Trafficking in Women and Children (ed.) (2007); and Criminal Abuse of Women and Children: International Perspective (ed.) (2009). He is a recognized expert in political criminology and international criminal justice systems and a consultant of the United Nations International Scientific and Professional Advisory Council (ISPAC) in Transnational Crime, Terrorism, Corruption, and Human Trafficking.

Arockiasamy Enoch received his Ph.D. in Criminology from the University of Madras in 2009. He is currently a Lecturer at the Madras School of Social Work, Chennai. His research interests include: rehabilitation of drug abusers and reforms in prisons.

Gail Humiston is a doctoral student in the College of Health and Public Affairs, Criminal Justice track, at the University of Central Florida. Her research interests include corrections, victimology, juvenile justice, human rights, comparative justice, social inequalities and crime, gender and policing, evaluative research methods, and domestic violence.

J.D. Jamieson is a Professor in the Criminal Justice Department at Texas State University, San Marcos. He received his Ph.D. in Criminal Justice from Sam Houston State University in 1981. He has published articles and books on deviant behavior, police and police problem solving, American criminal procedure, and corrections. He is currently involved in cross cultural research with colleagues in Thailand, and is co-authoring books on western criminology theory and family violence as they apply to Asian cultures.

Sesha Kethineni is a Professor in the Department of Criminal Justice Sciences at Illinois State University. She received her Ph.D. in criminal justice from Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. Her recent works include female homicide offending in India, status of children in India, victim and offender characteristics and protective orders in domestic violence cases in the United States, and youth-parent-battering. Her co-authored book titled, Comparative Delinquency: India and the United States, received the 1997 Distinguished Book Award by the International Division of American Society of Criminology.

Jessie L. Krienert is an Associate Professor in the Department of Criminal Justice Sciences at Illinois State University. She received her Ph.D. in criminal justice from the University of Nebraska at Omaha in 2000. Dr. Krienert has published over a dozen articles in top criminal justice journals and has co-authored books on the subculture of prison rape and employment and crime. Her research interests include prison subculture, masculinity, offenders with disabilities, and understudied forms of family violence.

Satenik Margaryan is an Assistant Professor at Montclair State University. She received her Ph.D. in criminal justice from Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. Her research interests include the treatment of prisoners mandated by international human rights instruments; national penal reform processes and penal systems in countries in transition. She has recently published her Ph.D. dissertation as a book which examined the penal reform in the Republic of Armenia since the collapse of the Soviet Union.

Kevin Matthews is a graduate student in the Department of Criminal Justice Sciences at Illinois State University.

Shannon McDonough is a Ph.D. candidate in Sociology at the University of South Carolina. Her master's thesis explored the relationship between school surveillance measures and fear. Her research interests include surveillance studies, criminology, and gender inequality.

Melanie-Angela Neuilly is an Assistant Professor at the University of Idaho. She received a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice from Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, in 2007, and a Ph.D. in Psychology from the University of Rennes II in France in 2008. She has published both in American and French peer-reviewed journals and edited volumes. Her research focuses on international and comparative criminology and criminal justice issues, violent crime and violent deaths, social construction and methodological questions.

Solomon R. Pandian received his Ph.D. in Criminology from the University of Madras in 2008. He is currently pursuing the specialized course in victimology at the Tokiwa International Victimology Institute, Tokiwa University, Mito, Japan. His research interests include victimological theories and cyber crime victimization.

Philip Reichel is a Professor in the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Northern Colorado. During his 30 plus years in academia, Dr. Reichel has received awards for his teaching, advising, service, and scholarship. He is the author of Comparative Criminal Justice Systems: A Topical Approach (2008); co-author with Leanne Alarid of Corrections: A Contemporary Introduction (2008); editor of the Handbook of Transnational Crime and Justice (2005); and has authored or co-authored more than thirty articles, book chapters, and encyclopedia entries. His areas of expertise include corrections, comparative justice systems, and transnational crime.

Jeffrey Ian Ross received his Ph.D. from University of Colorado-Boulder in 1993. He is an Associate Professor in the Division of Criminology, Criminal Justice and Forensic Studies, and a Fellow of the Center for International and Comparative Law at the University of Baltimore. His areas of expertise include national security, political violence, political crime, violent crime, corrections, and policing for over two decades. Dr. Ross is the author, co-author, editor and co-editor of thirteen books including Will Terrorism End? (2006); Political Terrorism: An Interdisciplinary Approach (2006); The Dynamics of Political Crime (2002); and the forthcoming Encyclopedia of Religion and Violence. He has performed consulting services for Westat; CSR; U.S. Department of Defense;

Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention; The National Institute of Justice; and U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

Gabriel Rubin is an Assistant Professor in the Justice Studies Department at Montclair State University. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 2008. He has attended numerous conferences presenting on issues of terrorism, public opinion, and global justice. His dissertation seeks to explain variation in legislative reactions to terrorist attacks. He resides in Bedminster, New Jersey with his wife Ariel and son Shai.

Murugesan Srinivasan received his Ph.D. in Criminology from the University of Madras in 1998. He is currently a Reader in the Department of Criminology, University of Madras. He has published more than 30 articles in regional, national, and international journals. He has conducted many research projects sponsored by both national and international funding agencies/institutions. His research and publication focus on the following areas: police administration, victimology, and economic crimes.

Michael Stohl received his Ph.D. in Political Science from Northwestern University in 1974. He is a Professor and Chair of the Department of Communication and Professor of Political Science at the University of California, Santa Barbara (UCSB) and International Partner Investigator for the Centre of Excellence for Policing and Security, a partnership of the Australian National University and Griffith University. Dr. Stohl's research focuses on political communication and international relations with special reference to political violence, terrorism, and human rights. He is the author or co-author of more than one hundred scholarly journal articles and book chapters and the author, editor or co-editor of twelve books. His most recent publications include "Winners and Losers in the War on Terror: The Problem of Metrics," in William Thompson and Rafi Reuveny (eds.), Coping with Contemporary Terrorism: Origins, Escalation, Counter Strategies and Responses, 2008 forthcoming.

Donna M. Vandiver is an Associate Professor of Criminal Justice at Texas State University, San Marcos. She received her Ph.D. in Criminal Justice from Sam Houston State University in 2002. She has published over a dozen articles in regional, national, and international journals. She has also co-authored a book, Juvenile Sex Offenders: What the Public Needs to Know. Her research interests include human rights issues in developing countries, offenders with special needs, and sexual offenders.

Jeffrey A. Walsh is an Associate Professor at Illinois State University. He received his Ph.D. in Criminal Justice from the City University of New York Graduate School in 2005. Dr. Walsh has published over a dozen articles in some of the leading journals in the field of criminal justice and has co-authored several book chapters on issues ranging from underserved victim populations to teaching pedagogy and practices. His research interests include predatory crime, community social structure and crime, victimization, and understudied forms of family violence.

Ralph Weisheit received his Ph.D. in Sociology from Washington State University. He is currently a Distinguished Professor of Criminal Justice at Illinois State University where he has been teaching and conducting research for over 25 years. He has authored eight books, including Pursuing Justice, Domestic Marijuana: A Neglected Industry, Crime and Policing in Rural and Small-Town America, and Methamphetamine: Its History, Pharmacology, and Treatment. His current research interests include drugs and crime, rural crime, and international justice.

L. Edward Wells received his Ph.D. in Sociology from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1976. He is currently a Professor in Criminal Justice Sciences at Illinois State University. His publications have covered a variety of topics, but recent research has focused largely on ecological explanations of crime and policing across a broad range of community settings from highly urbanized to remotely rural.