

African Entrepreneurship
in Jos, Central Nigeria, 1902–1985

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
AFRICAN WORLD SERIES
Toyin Falola, Series Editor

African Entrepreneurship in Jos, Central Nigeria, 1902–1985
S.U. Fwatshak

*Pioneer, Patriot, and Nigerian Nationalist:
A Biography of the Reverend M.D. Opara, 1915–1965*
Felix Ekechi

The Tiv and Their Southern Neighbours, 1890–1990
Emmanuel Chiahemba Ayangaôr

African Entrepreneurship in Jos, Central Nigeria, 1902–1985

S.U. Fwatshak

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS

Durham, North Carolina

Copyright © 2011
S.U. Fwatshak
All Rights Reserved

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Fwatshak, Sati Umaru.

African entrepreneurship in Jos, Central Nigeria, 1902-1985 / S.U. Fwatshak.

p. cm. -- (Carolina Academic Press African world series)

Rev. version of the author's thesis (Ph. D.)--University of Jos.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-59460-846-9 (alk. paper)

1. Entrepreneurship--Nigeria--Jos--History--20th century. 2. Business enterprises--Nigeria--Jos--History--20th century. 3. Small business--Nigeria--Jos--History--20th century. 4. Free enterprise--Nigeria--Jos--History--20th century. 5. Jos (Nigeria)--Economic policy. I. Title. II. Series.

HD2928.Z8J674 2010

338'.040966952--dc22

2010017667

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
700 Kent Street
Durham, North Carolina 27701
Telephone (919) 489-7486
Fax (919) 493-5668
www.cap-press.com

Printed in the United States of America

Contents

Tables	ix
Series Editor's Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Chapter One • Introduction	3
Chapter Two • Entrepreneurship in Economic Thought: Disciplinary Perspectives	15
Introduction	15
Economic Perspectives	16
Psychological Perspectives	27
Sociological Perspectives	30
Historical Perspectives	32
Conclusion: Towards a Working Definition of Entrepreneurship	33
Chapter Three • Research on African Entrepreneurship	35
Introduction	35
The African Continent and the West African Sub-Region	35
The Nigerian Case	46
Conclusion	64
Chapter Four • Pre-Colonial Profile of African Entrepreneurship on the Jos Plateau	67
Introduction	67
The Environment of Enterprise	67
Entrepreneurship in Production	69
Agriculture	69
Industries/Handicrafts	70
The Tin Industry	70
The Iron Industry	72
Pot Making	74
Wood Crafts	75
Weaving	76
The Leather Industries	77

The Salt Industry	78
Entrepreneurship In Trade/Exchange	79
Local Trade	80
Long Distance Trade	83
Trade Networks	83
Trade Routes	86
Trade Diaspora	87
Market Centers	90
Currencies	90
Entrepreneurs, Prices and Profits	91
Scope and Scale of African Entrepreneurship	93
Conclusion	96
Chapter Five • African Entrepreneurship in Jos in the
Early Colonial Period, 1902–1945	99
Introduction	99
Formation of the Jos Urban Polity and Economy	100
Afizere Settlement of Guash	100
Anaguta Settlement of Naraguta	101
Berom Settlement of Kabong	102
Colonization of the Jos Area	103
Urbanization	105
Colonialism and Private Enterprises	107
Foreign Enterprises	107
Tin Mining and Other Crafts	108
Expatriate Firms in the Distributive Trade	111
Banking	112
The Levantines	113
African Entrepreneurship	113
The Distributive Trade	114
Handicrafts	116
Jos Native Authority and Potato Production and Marketing	120
The New Sectors	122
Transportation and Market Centers as Agents of Growth	126
The Transport Revolution	126
Market Centers	127
Domestic Slavery and Market Forces as Risk Factors	129
Slavery	129
Market Forces	130
Profiles of African Entrepreneurs in Jos	131
Conclusion	133

Chapter Six • African Entrepreneurship in Jos in the Late Colonial Period, 1946–1960	135
Introduction	135
Political Economy of De-Colonization	135
Foreign Enterprises	141
Tin Mining	141
Import Substitution Industrialization (ISI)	142
Cinema	145
Scope and Patterns of African Entrepreneurship in Jos	146
Trade	147
Hotels	148
Contracts	148
Spare Parts	149
Commercial Transport	150
Law Practice	151
Patent Medicine/Pharmacy	151
Tin Mining	152
Industries	154
Profiles of Small-Scale African Entrepreneurs	156
Isaac Cookey Jaja	156
Chief T.A. Ladipo	157
Conclusion	158
Chapter Seven • The Post-Colonial State and African Entrepreneurship in Jos, 1960–1985	161
Introduction	161
The African Post-Colonial State and Capitalist Development	161
The Nigerian State and African Entrepreneurship	165
Nurture Capitalism	165
Indigenization	166
State-Owned Enterprises	171
Scope and Patterns of African Entrepreneurship in Jos Metropolis	173
Commercial Transportation	179
Laundry and Dry Cleaning	180
Discotheques	180
Cinema	180
Banking	181
Insurance and Insurance Brokerage	181
Other Businesses	182
Explaining the Question of Scale and Scope of Private African Enterprises	183

Foreign Enterprises (Tin Smelting)	190
Conclusion	190
Appendix I • Registered Enterprises in Jos and Other Divisions, 1946–1960	193
Appendix II • State Assisted Enterprises in Plateau State, 1969–1981	197
Appendix III • Large-Scale Enterprises in Jos, Bukuru and the Local Governments of Plateau State, 1961–1985	199
Bibliography	219
Index	235

Tables

Table 6.1 Private Enterprises with Declared Share Capital of Above N50,000	155
Table 7.1 Some Enterprises in the Post-Colonial Period Worth N5000 and Above by Period of Origin	174
Table 7.2 Enterprises in Jos with Share Capital Worth One Million and Above	184
Table 7.3 Enterprises with Share Capital Worth a Quarter Million but Less Than One Million	185

Series Editor's Preface

The Carolina Academic Press African World Series, inaugurated in 2010, offers significant new works in the field of African and Black World studies. The series provides scholarly and educational texts that can serve both as reference works and as readers in college classes.

Studies in the series are anchored in the existing humanistic and the social scientific traditions. Their goal, however, is the identification and elaboration of the strategic place of Africa and its Diaspora in a shifting global world. More specifically, the studies will address gaps and larger needs in the developing scholarship on Africa and the Black World.

The series intends to fill gaps in areas such as African politics, history, law, religion, culture, sociology, literature, philosophy, visual arts, art history, geography, language, health, and social welfare. Given the complex nature of Africa and its Diaspora, and the constantly shifting perspectives prompted by globalization, the series also meets a vital need for scholarship connecting knowledge with events and practices. Reflecting the fact that life in Africa continues to change, especially in the political arena, the series explores issues emanating from racial and ethnic identities, particularly those connected with the ongoing mobilization of ethnic minorities for inclusion and representation.

Toyin Falola
University of Texas at Austin

Acknowledgments

The writing of this book was made possible by the contributions of many people, organizations, institutions and committees to whom I owe debts of gratitude.

I am profoundly grateful to Professor Monday Mangyvat, former Vice-Chancellor of the University of Jos, who supervised my Ph.D. thesis which is the corner stone of this book. Since 1990 when we first met, he has shown keen interest in me as a person and most especially as an academic.

I am also grateful to the Government of the United States of America, the Fulbright Commission, the Public Affairs Section and the Embassy of the United States for awarding me a Fulbright Grant for the 2000/2001 academic session. The grant enabled me to carry out research at New York University (NYU), New York. This proved most rewarding, as the BOBST Library of the School has a rich collection. My academic advisor at New York University, Professor Yaw Nyarko was very understanding, co-operative and helpful. I so much cherish his kind assistance. Similarly, I am highly grateful to Professor Richard W. Hull of the History Department at NYU. He was fatherly and very kind to me. He assisted me in many ways. He made me feel as a member of the faculty. He read and suggested corrections to some of my drafts. He gave me books and shared with me both my dull and bright moments. I also wish to thank Mr. Nimi Wariboki, Adjunct faculty at NYU. He directed me to where I could get some of the relevant texts I needed and also read and corrected some of my drafts. Two Lecturers in the Economics Department of NYU deserve mention and thanks. They are Professor David B.H. Denoon, and Professor Ray Debraj. They allowed me audit courses they taught and were personally friendly. Emily Rizzo, my administrative advisor at NYU was also very useful. She sorted out all administrative issues that I had to deal with and made my stay at NYU comfortable. Linda and Lauren of the Economics Department also provided immeasurable assistance with photocopying some rare materials. Lateef Olawale of the Law Faculty at NYU was a great friend, and compatriot. He showed me enormous love, as I shared with him his house at Brooklyn during the last three months of my stay in New York. The staff and management of Metro International were incredible. Through Metro's programs, I got to know more of New York City. Virginia Shufford, Ann, and Aneka were creative with designing social programs, which enabled me and other Fulbrighters know New York City better. Dennis Anderson and Mr. Richard Tsui of Pace University, New York, were most friendly and kind. When my laptop crashed, they helped me fix it. I also appreciate the kind gestures of Virginia Franklin and her mother of the Bronx, New York. I had Thanksgiving dinner with them in November 2000. Virginia was another useful source of orientation on New York City. I acknowledge with gratitude the love, kindness and charity of Dr. Buba Misawa of Washington and Jefferson's College in Pittsburgh. He gave Dr. Dafur and I a brotherly treatment.

I also wish to thank the staff of the History Department University of Jos, for being brotherly. My academic colleagues took my courses during my absences in 2000/2001 and in 2009/2010. I thank most especially the one time Heads of Department, L.D. Walu and Dr. B.T. Bingel and the former Dean of the Arts Faculty, Professor J.F. Jemkur for the confidence they had in me and assistance they rendered me when I got the Fulbright award. Kris Kuju, Yusuf Mugu, Prof. Umar Danfulani are friends, brothers, and colleagues. I cannot say more: the rest is in the heart.

My wife, Joy and three kids, Dhiret, Shyaar and Nyasi, showed endless understanding. They have borne the brunt of my failure to have time for them without grudges. My Uncles J.D. Yilzung, John Tongle supported me beyond mention.

I am also very grateful to the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Jos, Professor S. G. Tyoden and the Vice-Chancellor of Benue State University, Makurdi, Professor P. Sorkaa, for granting me Sabbatical Leave to Benue State University in the 2009/10 session and thereby enabled me to revise my Ph.D. thesis in a publishable form. The academic and non-academic faculty of the Department of History, Benue State University, gave me warm welcome and made me accomplish the task I set for myself during the sabbatical leave.

I would also like thank Professor Toyin Falola of the University of Texas at Austin, USA for encouraging me in various ways to publish in the United States of America. I have never met a man so versatile and accomplished and yet associating with the lowly.