Series Note

The Legal Research Series published by Carolina Academic Press includes titles from many states around the country. The goal of each book is to provide law students, practitioners, paralegals, college students, laypeople, and librarians with the essential elements of legal research in each state. Unlike more bibliographic texts, the Legal Research Series books seek to explain concisely both the sources of state law research and the process for conducting legal research effectively.

Preface and Acknowledgments

The goal of New York Legal Research 2d is to explore concisely both the sources of New York state law research and the process of conducting research using those sources. New to the second edition is a chapter on New York City law.

Writing a book like this is a collaborative effort, and this is as true in this edition as it was in the first. In the first edition, each author took a leading role in various chapters. Elizabeth Adelman was responsible for drafting chapters on statutes, constitutions, local law, and court rules; legislative history; administrative law; updating; and ethics. She also provided current expertise on New York resources. Suzanne Rowe was responsible for drafting chapters on research techniques, judicial opinions, and research strategies, as well as the introductory chapter and the citation appendix. Both authors contributed portions to the chapter on secondary sources.

In the second edition, Elizabeth Adelman took a leading role in updating the chapters on judicial opinions; legislative history; administrative law; ethics; and research strategies. Theodora Belniak, our new co-author, was responsible for drafting a new chapter on New York City law and for a complete re-write of the secondary sources chapter. In addition, she took a leading role in updating the chapters on the research process; legal research techniques; statutes, constitutions, local law, and court rules; updating; and the citation appendix. Suzanne Rowe contributed to each chapter in an editorial capacity. Two of the authors have written other titles in the Legal Research Series, and portions of their earlier work are reflected here.

We gratefully acknowledge the substantive contributions of Alison F. Alifano and Marshall R. Voizard. For superb research and editing assistance, we appreciate the work of Mason Whitcomb. Due to the small size of this book, some screens have been cropped and some page excerpts slightly modified. Please note that further reproduction is prohibited.
