Acknowledgments

As I begin my twentieth year in this dynamic field, I must thank all of my colleagues. Professionals from across the country, representing the spectrum of disciplines, who have given their all to these cases over the years. The price we pay in emotional, mental and physical tolls is not always recognized, by ourselves as well as others. I like to believe I am as tough as they come, but we must never forget ourselves as our first priority. These kids and these cases deserve us at our best.
