

The Moot Court
Advisor's Handbook

The Moot Court Advisor's Handbook

SECOND EDITION

The Legal Writing Institute

James Dimitri

Melissa E. Love Koenig

Susie Salmon

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS

Durham, North Carolina

Copyright © 2023
Carolina Academic Press
All Rights Reserved

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Dimitri, James, author. | Love Koenig, Melissa E., author. | Salmon, Susie, author. | Legal Writing Institute.

Title: The moot court advisor's handbook / The Legal Writing Institute, James Dimitri, Melissa E. Love Koenig, and Susie Salmon.

Description: Second edition. | Durham, North Carolina : Carolina Academic

Press, 2023. | Includes bibliographical references and index.

Identifiers: LCCN 2023024092 | ISBN 9781531019495 (paperback) | ISBN 9781531019501 (ebook)

Subjects: LCSH: Moot courts—United States.

Classification: LCC KF281.A2 M66 2023 | DDC 340.071/173—dc23

LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2023024092>

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS
700 Kent Street
Durham, North Carolina 27701
(919) 489-7486
www.cap-press.com
Printed in the United States of America

To Annie, Mom, Lisa, and Mom D.
for their unwavering love, support, and encouragement.
—J.D.

To Jonathan and Olivia, and my parents, George and Edith.
Thank you for always being there for me and showing me what great advocacy is.
—M.E.L.K.

To my parents, Michael and Nan, and my brother, Jeff.
I will never be part of a better team. And to all the residents of the #houseofterriers. Wherever I am, you are my home.
—S.S.

Contents

Acknowledgments for the Second Edition	xv
Acknowledgments	xvii
About the Authors	xix
Contributors	xxi
Online Materials	xxiii
Chapter 1 · Introduction	3
I. What Is Moot Court?	4
II. History of Moot Court	5
III. Why Have a Moot Court/Legal-Skills Competition Program?	9
A. Moot court can help satisfy new ABA Standards.	10
1. Experiential education requirement	11
2. Professional identity formation requirement	13
B. Moot court helps students build skills in collaboration and teamwork.	14
C. Moot court helps students build confidence in their skills and independent judgment.	15
D. Moot court fosters nimble thinkers.	16
E. Moot court helps students exercise critical thinking skills and develop professional judgment.	16
F. Moot court deepens learning in substantive areas.	17
G. Moot court is a chance to practice professionalism.	18
H. Moot court is a networking opportunity.	19
I. Moot court is a law-school rite of passage.	20
J. And, of course, more legal writing never hurt anyone.	21

Chapter 2 · Administering a Moot Court/Legal-Skills Competition Program	23
I. Overall Organization and Bylaws	23
A. Bylaws and other governing documents	28
B. Assembling and managing a moot court board	30
1. Potential roles for a moot court board	31
2. Board selection process and considerations in determining composition	33
3. Other features of your moot court board	40
II. Funding	42
A. Creating a budget	42
1. External competitions	44
2. Internal competitions	45
3. Hosting external competitions	46
4. Social events/awards ceremonies	47
5. Alumni association events	47
6. Other expenses	48
B. Fundraising	48
C. Enlisting alumni support	52
III. Conclusion	55
Chapter 3 · Managing an Internal Moot Court Competition	57
I. Building the Framework	58
A. Creating the competition format and rules	59
1. The competition format	59
2. The competition rules	64
B. Creating the competition problem	78
1. Should the problem present an open universe or a closed universe?	78
2. Who will create the problem?	79
3. What attributes and components should the problem have?	82
4. Where may problem topics be found?	87
5. How should the problem's factual scenario be created?	89
6. In which jurisdiction should the problem be set?	91
C. Creating scoring rubrics	92

1. Brief-scoring rubrics	93
2. Oral-argument-scoring rubrics	98
D. Creating the bench brief	101
1. The bench brief's purpose and content	102
2. The bench brief's length and format	105
3. Drafting and editing the bench brief	106
E. Creating a competition website	106
1. What components should the competition website contain?	107
2. What tools should you use to build the competition website?	108
II. Managing the Process	110
A. Recruiting and preparing judges	110
1. Recruiting effective judges	111
2. Executing an effective judge-recruitment plan	113
3. Preparing the judges	121
B. Orienting the competitors	127
C. Administering the brief scoring	128
1. Brief-submission requirements for the competitors	128
2. Distributing briefs and scoring materials to brief judges	129
3. Assigning scoring duties to the moot court board	130
4. Submitting the brief scores	130
D. Conducting the oral arguments	130
1. Reserving rooms for oral arguments and administrative tasks	131
2. Scheduling the oral arguments	132
3. Determining the oral argument matchups	136
4. Running the oral rounds	150
5. Handling protests	154
6. Handling unexpected emergencies	156
E. Announcements and awards	157
1. Announcements	157
2. Cash awards and scholarships	158
3. Awards and recognition	159
III. Conclusion	161

Chapter 4 · Advising External Competition Teams	163
I. Choosing a Roster of Competitions	164
A. Choosing among the three major competitions	165
B. Choosing subject-specific competitions	167
C. Choosing competitions based on coaching availability	170
II. Scouting and Selecting Team Members	173
A. Scouting new team members	173
B. Selecting students for a team	175
1. Selecting students from the first-year class	175
2. Selecting students from the second-year class	176
3. Assigning and informing the teams	176
III. Preparing Your Team for the Competition	178
A. First steps before the competition starts	178
B. Assigning team responsibilities	179
C. The initial meeting	181
IV. Promoting Effective Brief Writing	183
A. Building the foundations for good brief writing	183
1. No assistance policies	184
2. Developing a team of strong brief writers	184
B. A primer on good brief writing	186
1. Identifying the issues	186
2. Researching the law	188
3. Outlining the arguments	189
4. Drafting the argument section	190
5. Crafting the other portions of the brief	191
6. Reviewing and revising the first draft	193
7. Polishing the final draft	193
V. Practicing Oral Arguments	196
A. Oral argument basics	196
1. The opening statement	196
2. The body of the argument	197
3. The closing statement	199
4. The rebuttal	199
B. Fielding questions	200
C. Proper etiquette at counsel's table	202
D. Practicing the oral argument	203
1. Planning the practices	203
2. The frequency of practices	204

3. The quality of practices	205
4. Practice judges	206
5. Practicing at home	208
6. Troubleshooting	209
7. Notes or no notes	209
8. Delivering effective feedback	210
9. Winning style	210
VI. On-Site: The Oral Argument Rounds	211
A. Whom to send	211
B. On arrival	213
1. Arrival and practice	213
2. Coaches meeting /check-in	214
C. The competition	214
1. Before the round	214
2. During the round	216
3. After the round	217
D. Staying positive	219
VII. Arbitrary and Capricious: Teachable Moments at the Competition	220
VIII. Post-Competition: Evaluating Your Team's Experience and Performance	222
IX. Unique Issues with International Competitions	224
X. Conclusion	230
Chapter 5 · Developing and Managing (or Hosting) an External Moot Court Competition	231
I. Initial Inquiries: Why Start (or Host) an External Moot Court Competition?	232
A. Timing	233
B. Facilities	235
C. Location	236
D. Costs	237
II. Founding Your Own National Moot Court Competition	238
A. First steps: Key decisions	239
1. Subject matter and focus of the competition	239
2. Fees	239
B. Marketing your new competition	240
C. Planning and logistics: Before the competition	242

1. Setting your competition timeline	243
2. Competition rules	244
3. Sponsors	248
4. Hotels	249
5. Processing registrations	250
6. Recruiting volunteers	251
7. Releasing briefs	251
8. Brief scoring	252
9. Preparing oral argument judges	253
10. Seeding teams	253
11. Contingency planning	254
D. Planning and logistics: Right before and during the competition	255
1. Pre-competition communications	255
2. Competitors' meeting	255
3. Judge orientation	257
4. Running oral argument rounds	257
5. Handling scoring disputes/sanctions	258
6. Food and beverage/other amenities	259
7. Awards	259
E. Planning and logistics: After the competition	261
III. Conclusion	262
Chapter 6 · Virtual Moot Court Competitions	263
I. Virtual Internal Competitions	264
A. Should we go virtual?	265
B. Specific best practices for planning and executing virtual internal competitions	267
1. Before the competition	267
2. During the competition	291
3. After the competition	293
II. Virtual External Competitions	294
A. Should we go virtual?	294
B. Specific best practices for planning and executing virtual external competitions	295
1. How many teams?	295
2. Registration fees	295
3. Timing of rounds	296
4. Team meetings	296

5. Anonymity, screennames, and virtual backgrounds	297
6. Competition app	298
7. Who can be in the courtroom	299
8. Creating a sense of place and community	299
III. Coaching Teams in Virtual External Competitions	300
A. Should we attend a virtual competition?	301
B. Preparing teams for virtual competition	302
C. During the competition	304
D. After the competition	306
IV. Conclusion	306

Acknowledgments for the Second Edition

Many people helped make this second edition better. University of Arizona Law student Marley Grosskopf provided research for Chapters One and Six, and fellow student Erica Litle cite-checked, proofread, and contributed invaluable suggestions to Chapters One, Two, Five, and Six. Professor Lisa Mazzie is a great colleague and mentor at Marquette Law School who is always instrumental in drafting the Marquette bylaws and handbook. Marquette's Donnette Tinsley and Marquette law student Andrew Depkon proofread Chapter Four. Lane McFadden of Indiana's Maurer School of Law, a member of the Legal Writing Institute's Moot Court Committee, shared indispensable feedback on a late draft of Chapter Six. University of Arizona Law's Debbie Martin and Barbara Vandervelde helped with some tricky, last-minute formatting issues.

For the appendices, Heather Baxter of Shepard Broad College of Law at Nova Southeastern University was kind enough to share the syllabus for her moot court course.

None of this would be possible without the support and shared wisdom of our colleagues at University of Arizona Law, Marquette, and IU McKinney. And of course, this entire endeavor continues to be inspired by generations of moot court competitors, who teach us something new every year.

Finally, we owe a great debt of gratitude to everyone at Carolina Academic Press for their patience and grace as we revised this second edition through a global pandemic that changed the world—and the practice and teaching of law—forever.

Acknowledgments

Writing this book has been one of the most rewarding experiences of our careers. We could not have accomplished this without the generosity and support of many people, and we would like to recognize them here.

First, this has truly been a collaborative process. Each of us is grateful to have worked with such capable and tireless colleagues, both on this book and on the Legal Writing Institute's Moot Court Committee. The experience of collaborating on this book together has made us better writers, mentors, and teachers.

None of us springs from the earth fully formed—not even law professors—and much of the wisdom in this book originated outside its authors. Professor Melissa Tatum not only helped draft the sample bylaws and inspired ideas shared in Chapter Five, she has been an invaluable mentor and colleague. Professor Julie Ferdon shared years of institutional memory about moot court and moot court competitions when Professor Salmon first joined Arizona Law. JJ Arevalo made last-minute edits and formatting on the first edition a breeze. Arizona Law Dean Marc Miller has consistently supported legal-skills competitions and Professor Salmon's work on this book. The Marquette Moot Court Executive Board and Professor Jessica Slavin helped draft the bylaws and handbook, and the students, faculty, and administration at Marquette are to be thanked for their unfailing support. Dean Joseph Kearney is a true champion of appellate advocacy, moot court, and legal writing at Marquette Law School. IU McKinney's Moot Court Board also helped draft several documents in the appendices—including bylaws, internal competition rules, and scoring rubrics—for which we are quite thankful. And Professor Dimitri owes a debt of gratitude to IU McKinney's faculty and administration for their steady and robust support of his work on this book and of IU McKinney's Moot Court Society.

Many people also read portions of this book and provided invaluable advice and support. Professor Suzanne Rabe has not only been a longtime mentor and advisor, she also reviewed drafts of Chapters One, Two, and Five, and provided insightful feedback and encouragement. Professor Sarah Ricks encouraged us to write the book in the first place and helped us get started. And Professor Allison Martin provided indispensable input to Professor Dimitri during his work on Chapter Three, giving suggestions on how to simplify that chapter.

None of this would have been possible without the students. Your struggles, triumphs, humor, intelligence, and persistence inspired virtually everything in this book. Every year, we have the privilege of meeting a new group of you. The diverse viewpoints and experiences you bring to the law-school endeavor enrich us and shape who we are as teachers, mentors, coaches, and human beings. In particular, we would like to thank Arizona Law's ABA National Appellate Advocacy Competition teams, Arizona Law's Moot Court Boards, the Marquette Law School Moot Court Association and teams, and IU McKinney's Moot Court Society.

Of course, we owe a great debt to the Legal Writing Institute's Board of Directors for their support of the Moot Court Committee's formation in 2008 and for their support of this book. Without the Board's encouragement, the writing of The Moot Court Advisor's Handbook simply would not have been possible.

Finally, thanks to Carolina Academic Press, and particularly Linda Lacy, for your indulgence and for being a dream and delight to work with over these past two years.

About the Authors

The Legal Writing Institute (LWI) is a non-profit organization dedicated to improving legal writing by providing a forum for discussion and scholarship about legal writing, analysis, and research. LWI promotes these activities through its publications, workshops, specialty conferences, and the national biennial conferences held in even-numbered years.

The Legal Writing Institute has over 2,800 members and includes representatives from 38 different countries. We are the second largest organization of law professors in the United States. Only the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) involves more members of the legal academic community. LWI sponsors many different working committees and projects, including the Moot Court Committee.

James Dimitri is a Clinical Professor of Law at Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law. Drawing on his experience as an appellate attorney for the Office of the Indiana Attorney General, Professor Dimitri advised IU McKinney's Moot Court Board for two decades, guiding the Board in its running of the school's internal appellate advocacy competition, the Honorable Robert H. Staton Intramural Moot Court Competition. He has also advised several award-winning interscholastic teams, including teams representing IU McKinney in the ABA National Appellate Advocacy Competition. Professor Dimitri co-founded the Legal Writing Institute's Moot Court Committee and is a past co-chair of the Committee.

Melissa E. Love Koenig is a Professor of Legal Writing at Marquette Law School, where she teaches Appellate Writing and Advocacy in addition to other legal writing courses. Professor Love Koenig co-advises the moot court program at Marquette, which includes the Law School's Jenkins Honors Moot Court Competition and the National Moot Court Competition's Region VIII Round. She also coaches the New York City Bar Association's National Moot Court Competition team and the William B. Spong Moot Court Tournament team. Prior to teaching, Professor Love Koenig gained experience in appellate practice as a clerk to the Honorable N. Patrick Crooks of the Wisconsin Supreme Court and later in private practice in Milwaukee as a litigator. She continues to consult on appellate cases and is a past chair of the State Bar of Wisconsin's Appellate Practice Section Board. Professor Love Koenig co-founded the Legal Writing Institute's Moot Court Committee and is a past Committee co-chair.

Susie Salmon is Director of Legal Writing and Clinical Professor of Law at University of Arizona, James E. Rogers College of Law. She teaches first-year Legal Research, Analysis, and Communication and upper-level writing seminars, and she has coached the College's ABA National Appellate Advocacy Competition teams since 2010. For many years, she ran the College's internal Fegtly 2L Moot Court Competition, supervised the Moot Court Board, and chaired the Legal Skills Competition Board. For the 2022–24 biennium, Professor Salmon serves as President of the Board of Directors of the Legal Writing Institute. She also is a past co-chair of the LWI Moot Court Committee. Before joining Arizona Law, Professor Salmon spent nine years as a litigator at large private law firms in California and Arizona. As a law student, she had the honor of participating in the moot court program at University of California Law, San Francisco, as both an advocate and a student coach.

Contributors

Chapter 1: Introduction

Lead Author and Editor: Susie Salmon

Contributor:

Melissa E. Love Koenig

Chapter 2: Administering a Moot Court/ Legal Skills Competition Program

Lead Author and Editor: Susie Salmon

Contributor:

Allison Martin

Chapter 3: Managing an Internal Moot Court Competition

Lead Author and Editor: James Dimitri

Contributors:

Gail Mullins

Connie S. Smothermon

Chapter 4: Advising External Competition Teams

Lead Author and Editor: Melissa E. Love Koenig

Contributors:

Todd Bruno

Christopher G. Evers

Victoria Lowery

Allison Martin

Edward H. Telfeyan

Chapter 5: Developing and Managing (or Hosting) an External Moot Court Competition

Lead Author and Editor: Susie Salmon

Chapter 6: Virtual Moot Court Competitions

Lead Author and Editor: Susie Salmon

Online Materials

Printable versions can be found at www.caplaws.com/mootcourt

Password: access29

