The Doctrine-Skills Divide
The Doctrine-Skills Divide

Legal Education’s Self-Inflicted Wound

Linda H. Edwards

E.L. Cord Foundation Professor of Law

UNLV William S. Boyd School of Law

Carolina Academic Press

Durham, North Carolina
In gratitude for the work of all my colleagues,

near and far, over the last thirty years.
Contents

Preface xi

PART I · INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1 · Today’s Doctrine/Skills Divide 5
Introduction to Law School X and Its Semantic Confusion 6

PART II · THE DICHOTOMY AS A SOCIAL CONSTRUCTION

Chapter 2 · Getting Real about Categories 13
Labels 15
Definitions: “Substantive,” “Doctrinal,” and “Skills” 17
A Property Course Teaches Crucial Lawyering Skills 20
A Legal Writing Course Teaches Doctrine and Substance 24
Prototypes, Family Resemblances, and “the Squirming World of Contingency and Flux” 27

Chapter 3 · Legal Theory: Realism and the Nature of What We Teach 35
Robert Rubinson, The Holmes School of Law: A Proposal to Reform
Legal Education Through Realism 36
Katherine R. Kruse, Getting Real about Legal Realism, New Legal Realism and Clinical Legal Education 50
Contents

Chapter 4 · Theories of Meaning: Realism and Rhetoric 63
Francis J. Mootz III, Vico, Llewellyn and the Task of Legal Education 64
Harold Anthony Lloyd, Theory without Practice Is Empty; Practice without Theory Is Blind: The Inherent Inseparability of Doctrine and Skills 77
Kristen Konrad Robbins Tiscione, Philosophy v. Rhetoric in Legal Education: Understanding the Schism between Doctrinal and Legal Writing Faculty 91

Chapter 5 · Theories of Learning 101
Jessica Erickson, Experiential Education in the Lecture Hall 101
Michael Hunter Schwartz, Teaching Law by Design: How Learning Theory and Instructional Design Can Inform and Reform Law Teaching 111

Chapter 6 · Category Errors in Legal Scholarship 131
Terrill Pollman & Linda H. Edwards, Scholarship by Legal Writing Professors: New Voices in the Legal Academy 133
What Is a “Legal Writing Topic”? 133
A. Category One: The Substance or Doctrine of Legal Writing 134
B. Category Two: The Theoretical Foundations of Legal Writing 139
C. Category Three: The Theory and Practice Appropriate to the Teaching of Legal Writing 141
D. Category Four: The Institutional Choices Affecting the Teaching of Legal Writing 146
Rationales Used to Discount Legal Writing Topics 149
Myth: Legal Writing Topics Do Not Qualify as Scholarship 149
The Trouble with Categories 156
Where Does This Leave Us? 158

Part III · Troublesome Entailments

Chapter 7 · The Divide’s Disturbing Entailments 163
1. The Dichotomy Creates Inaccurate Perceptions 165
2. The Dichotomy Causes Inadvertent Substantive Drift 166
3. The Dichotomy Discourages Carnegie-Type Integration 168
4. The Dichotomy Impedes Improvement in Assessments 170
5. The Dichotomy Devalues the Teaching of Skills 173
Contents

Chapter 8 · Educational Entailments: Learning Theory & Formative Assessment
Cognitive Apprenticeship, Composition Theory, and the Writing-Thinking Connection
Experiential Learning, Cognitive Expertise, Schema Theory, and Schön’s Theory of Professional Epistemology
Cooperative Learning
Multiple Intelligences
Formative Assessment
Learning Objectives and Mastery Oriented Learning
Jessica Erickson, Experiential Education in the Lecture Hall
Leah Christensen, The Power of Skills: An Empirical Study of Lawyering Skills Grades as the Strongest Predictor of Law School Success
Chapter 9 · Rhetoric’s Critique
Linda L. Berger, When Less Is More: An Ideological Rhetorical Analysis of Selected ABA Standards on Curricula and Faculty
Chapter 10 · Gendering Entailments
Ann C. McGinley, Reproducing Gender on Law School Faculties
Chapter 11 · Crossing the Great Scholarship Divide
Terrill Pollman & Elaine W. Shoben, Crossing the Great Scholarship Divide

Part IV · How We Got Here

Chapter 12 · The Road That Brought Us Here
Jeffrey D. Jackson & David R. Cleveland, American Legal Education: A History of Integrated Instruction

Part V · Building a Better Future

Chapter 13 · Choosing a Better Future in the Classroom
Elizabeth M. Bloom, A Law School Game Changer: (Trans)formative Feedback
Jessica Erickson, Experiential Education in the Lecture Hall
Chapter 14 · Rethinking the Curriculum

Institutional Support
- Jessica Erickson, Experiential Education in the Lecture Hall

Curricular Revision
- Revising a Traditional Curriculum
  - Gerald F. Hess, Gonzaga’s Integrated Curriculum
- Disrupting Dualism by Creating a Third Category
- Replacing the Doctrine/Skills Dualism with a New Set of Categories
  - Linda H. Edwards, The Trouble with Categories

Chapter 15 · A Journey Across the Divide

- Deborah Jones Merritt, Crossing the Divide

Index
Preface

This book simply would not have been possible without the gracious support of many others. First and foremost, I am thankful to the contributing authors themselves and to those on whose work the contributing authors have relied. I am grateful also for the many wise commentators participating in recent national discussions about the future of legal education. No matter what their views, all of these voices are urging us to do a better job of educating new generations of lawyers—a critically important goal. Finally, I am more grateful than I can express for my colleagues in legal education over the last 30 years. My own work, such as it is, has been possible only because of what I have learned from them.

Thanks go also to the journals that have kindly permitted the inclusion of work previously published in their own volumes. To keep the book short enough to be useful, many of these articles are excerpted rather than included in full. In some cases, footnotes and endnotes have been reduced and renumbered to provide cohesion within the chapter. Occasionally, some section headings and section numbers have been altered for the same reason. All of these articles are well worth reading in full, and I hope readers of this book will take the time to read the articles in their original publications.

April 10, 2017
Linda H. Edwards
E.L. Cord Foundation Professor of Law
William S. Boyd School of Law
University of Nevada, Las Vegas