

Crime Victimization

Crime Victimization

A Comprehensive Overview

SECOND EDITION

Elizabeth Quinn Wright

Sara Brightman

CAROLINA ACADEMIC PRESS

Durham, North Carolina

Copyright © 2018
Carolina Academic Press, LLC
All Rights Reserved

ISBN 978-1-61163-900-1
e-ISBN 978-1-53100-727-0

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Quinn, Elizabeth (Criminologist) author.

Title: Crime victimization : a comprehensive overview / Elizabeth Quinn
Wright and Sara Brightman.

Description: Second Edition. | Durham : Carolina Academic Press, [2018] |
Revised edition of Crime victimization, [2015] | Includes bibliographical references and index.

Identifiers: LCCN 2017044416 | ISBN 9781611639001 (alk. paper)

Subjects: LCSH: Victims of crimes.

Classification: LCC HV6250.25 .Q56 2018 | DDC 362.88--dc23

LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2017044416>

Carolina Academic Press, LLC
700 Kent Street
Durham, North Carolina 27701
Telephone (919) 489-7486
Fax (919) 493-5668
www.cap-press.com

Printed in the United States of America

Dedication

To my loved ones—thank you for your unending support and encouragement.

EQW

To my family, my husband, and friends who have always supported me.

SWB

To the victims and survivors who inspire us—we wrote this for you.

EQW & SWB

Contents

Preface	xv
Acknowledgments	xix
About the Authors	xxi

SECTION I

History and Measurement of Victimization

Chapter 1: Background	3
History of Crime Victimization	3
Victim Participation in the Criminal Justice “Process”	4
History of Victimology	8
Professional Profile 1.1	9
Identifying and Defining Victims of Crime	12
Professional Profile 1.2	15
Explaining Victimization	20
Continuum of Victims’ Contribution to Crime	20
“In the News” Box 1.1	23
Summary and Conclusion	25
Key Terms	26
Discussion Questions	26
Websites for Further Information	26
References	27
Chapter 2: Measurement of Victimization	29
Sources of Data on Victims	30
“In the News” Box 2.1	31
Overview of Victimization in the United States and Globally	33
Homicide	33
Professional Profile 2.1	34
Trends in Homicide Rate across Time	37
Homicide in a Global Context	40
Sexual Violence	41
Intimate Partner Violence	44
Gender-Based Violence in a Global Context	45
“In the News” Box 2.2	47
Robbery	48
Trends of Robbery across Time	49
Robbery in a Global Context	49
Aggravated Assault	51

Trends of Aggravated Assault across Time	51
Aggravated Assault in a Global Context	52
Burglary	53
Trends across Time for Burglary	53
Burglary in a Global Context	54
Larceny-Theft	54
Trends across Time for Larceny-Theft	55
Larceny-Theft in a Global Context	55
Motor Vehicle Theft	56
Trends across Time for Motor Vehicle Theft	56
Motor Vehicle Theft in a Global Context	57
Arson	59
Summary and Conclusion	59
Key Terms	59
Discussion Questions	60
Websites for Further Information	60
References	60
SECTION II
Victimization: Consequences, Forms and Underrepresented Populations
Chapter 3: Victims and Victimization — Definitions and an Overview	67
Definition of Victim and Victimization	67
Primary, Secondary, and Tertiary Victimizations	68
“In the News” Box 3.1	69
The Effects of Victimization	70
Impact of Harm	72
Physical Harm	72
Financial Harm	78
Psychological Harm	80
Short- and Long-Term Effects of Victimization	80
Common Short-Term Effects of Crime	81
Common Long-Term Effects of Crime	82
Property Crime Victims	83
Social Harm	83
What Do Victims Need to Recover?	84
Feeling Safe	84
Express Emotions	85
Information	86
Summary and Conclusion	87
Key Terms	87
Discussion Questions	87
Websites for Further Information	87
References	88
Chapter 4: Understanding Victimization across the Crime Spectrum	91
Violent Crime Victimizations versus Property Crime Victimizations	91
Homicide	92

Circumstances/Motives for Homicide	92
Differential Risk for Homicide	92
Did You Know ...?	94
Rape, Sexual Assault, and Other Sex Offenses	94
Circumstances/Motives for Sex Crimes	95
Differential Risk for Rape/Sexual Assault	95
Compounding Factors for Children and Males	96
Did You Know ...?	98
Professional Profile 4.1	101
Aggravated Assault	102
Circumstances/Motives for Assault	103
Differential Risk for Assault	103
Did You Know ...?	104
Robbery	104
Circumstances/Motives for Robbery	104
“In the News” Box 4.1	105
Differential Risk for Robbery	106
Did You Know ...?	108
Burglary	108
Circumstances/Motives for Burglary	108
Differential Risk for Burglary	109
Did You Know ...?	109
Motor Vehicle Theft	110
Circumstances/Motives for Motor Vehicle Theft	110
Differential Risk for Motor Vehicle Theft	110
Did You Know ...?	112
Larceny-Theft	112
Circumstances/Motives for Larceny-Theft	113
Differential Risk for Larceny-Theft	113
Did You Know ...?	114
“Victimless” Crimes	115
Repeat Victimization	115
Defining Repeat Victimization	116
Prevalence of Repeat Victimization	116
Time Order of Repeat Victimization	118
Why Are Targets Repeatedly Victimized?	118
Police Response to Repeat Victimization and Victims’ Expectations of and Satisfaction with Police	120
Summary and Conclusion	121
Key Terms	122
Discussion Questions	122
Websites for Further Information	122
References	122
Chapter 5: Vulnerable Populations and Interpersonal Violence—Children, Adolescents, Intimate Partners, the Elderly, and Animals	129
Children as Victims	130
Types of Abuse	130
“In the News” Box 5.1	132

Prevalence of Child Abuse	133
Characteristics of Victims and Perpetrators	133
Mandated Reporters	135
Missing Children	136
Professional Profile 5.1	139
Adolescents as Victims of Personal and Property Crime	140
Types of Crime	140
Who Do They Report To?	141
Sibling-on-Sibling Violence	141
Intimate Partners as Victims	143
Types of Violence	143
Characteristics of Victims and Offenders and Prevalence of IPV	144
Battered Woman Syndrome	145
IPV in LGBTQ Relationships	145
The Question on Everyone's Mind: "Why Don't They Leave?"	145
Cycle of Violence	146
Power and Control Wheel	147
"In the News" Box 5.2	150
Stalking	150
Professional Profile 12.1	151
Elders as Victims	153
"In the News" Box 5.3	154
Types of Abuse	154
Who Perpetrates Abuse?	155
Animals as Victims	155
Types of Harm	156
Explanations for Harming Animals	156
Investigation and Incidence of Harm to Animals	157
Characteristics of Offenses	159
Characteristics of Complainants and Perpetrators	159
"In the News" Box 5.4	159
The Link	160
Summary and Conclusion	161
Key Terms	161
Discussion Questions	162
Websites for Further Information	162
References	162
Chapter 6: White-Collar Crimes and Workplace Violence	165
White-Collar Crime	165
Definitional Issues	167
Victims of White-Collar Crime	168
"In the News" Box 6.1	169
Victims of the Criminal Justice System	169
Victims of the Police	170
Victims of the Courts	173
Victims of Corrections	174
Responses to Violence by the Criminal Justice System	175
Environmental Crime Victims	175

Workplace Violence	177
What Is Workplace Violence?	177
Typologies of Workplace Violence	177
Prevalence of Workplace Violence	178
Occupations Most at Risk of Workplace Violence	179
Workplace Homicides	179
“In the News” Box 6.2	179
Additional Characteristics of Workplace Violence Incidents	181
Causes of Workplace Violence	182
Special Focus: Law Enforcement Officers Killed and Assaulted in the Line of Duty	182
Law Enforcement Officers Feloniously Killed	182
Law Enforcement Officers Accidentally Killed	185
“In the News” Box 6.3	186
Law Enforcement Officers Assaulted	187
Other Criminal Justice System Assaults and Homicides Due to Workplace Violence	188
Addressing Workplace Violence	190
Prevention	190
“In the News” Box 6.4	191
Summary and Conclusion	192
Key Terms	192
Discussion Questions	192
Websites for Further Information	193
References	193
Chapter 7: Hate Crimes and Cybercrime	197
Hate Crimes	197
History	198
Data and Research	199
Motivation	201
“In the News” Box 7.1	202
Criticisms	202
Addressing Hate Crimes	203
The Global Context	204
Cybercrime	205
What Is Cybercrime?	205
Fraud	205
Box 7.1 Beware Hurricane Katrina Relief Scams	208
Identity Theft	210
Cyberstalking	211
Child Pornography on/via the Internet	211
Who Is Involved in the Production, Distribution, and Viewing of Child Pornography?	213
What Are the Effects of Child Pornography on the Victims?	214
Cybercrime on the International Level	214
Global Identity Theft	215
Global Child Pornography	215
Summary	216

Key Terms	217
Discussion Questions	217
Websites for Further Information	217
References	218

SECTION III Victims' Rights

Chapter 8: An Overview of Victims' Rights	223
The Victims' Rights Movement	224
Social Movements	224
Academia	225
Media Attention	226
Presidential and Political Influence	226
Professional Profile 8.1	228
Victims' Bills of Rights	231
Victim Assistance Organizations and Victimology Societies	234
"In the News" Box 8.1	236
Professional Profile 8.2	237
Summary and Conclusions	241
Key Terms	242
Discussion Questions	242
Websites for Further Information	242
References	243
Chapter 9: Federal Victims' Rights Legislation	245
Evolution of Victims' Rights and Assistance through Legislation	245
Overview	245
1960s: First Steps	245
1970s: Gaining Momentum in Victim Activism	246
1980s: Recognition and Growth	246
1990s: Depth and Maturation	250
2000s: Expanded Commitment to Victims' Rights	253
Professional Profile 9.1	255
"In the News" Box 9.1	258
2010s: The Future—What's Next?	260
Summary and Conclusions	262
Key Terms	263
Discussion Questions	264
Websites for Further Information	264
References	264

SECTION IV Working with Victims and Next Steps

Chapter 10: Crime Victims and the Criminal Justice System	269
Why Do They Report?	270
Who Reports to the Police?	272
Why Don't They Report?	273

Victims and the Police	274
Victims and the Courts	277
Professional Profile 10.1	280
“In the News” Box 10.1	282
Victims and Corrections	282
“In the News” Box 10.2	284
Additional Modes of Repaying Victims	286
Crime Victim Compensation	286
Civil Court	287
Direct Victim Services within the Criminal Justice System	287
Professional Profile 10.2	288
Professional Profile 10.3	291
Summary and Conclusions	293
Key Terms	294
Discussion Questions	294
Website for Further Information	294
References	294
Chapter 11: Working with Victims—Victim Advocacy Outside of the Criminal Justice System	297
History of Victim Advocacy	297
What Is a Victim Advocate?	298
“In the News” Box 11.1	298
Information and Education	300
Direct Advocacy	300
Accompaniment and Companionship	300
Emotional Support	301
Safety Assessment and Crisis Intervention	301
Professional Profile 11.1	302
Child and Older Adult Victims	304
Child Advocacy Centers	305
Guardian ad Litem	305
Exposure to Domestic Violence—Shelter Services	305
Challenges for Elder Domestic Violence Victims	305
Utilization of Victim Advocacy Services	305
Impact of Family and Friends	306
Overall Effectiveness of Victim Advocacy Services	307
Information and Direct Advocacy	307
Emotional Support	307
Safety Assessment and Crisis Intervention	308
Victims and Other Personnel	308
Medical Services	308
Professional Profile 11.2	309
Sexual Assault Nurse Examiners (SANE)	314
Psychological Services	314
Professional Profile 11.3	315
Religious Counseling	317
Challenges Faced by Victim Advocacy Agencies	318
Victims and the Media	319

Summary and Conclusions	321
Key Terms	321
Discussion Questions	321
Websites for Further Information	322
References	322
Chapter 12: Burgeoning Issues and the Future	325
Working with Special and/or Underserved Populations of Victims	325
Victims with Disabilities	326
Rural Victims	328
Geographical Dispersion and Isolation	329
Informal Social Control Networks, Mistrust of Authority, and Stigma	329
Lack of Knowledge About or Access to Programs That Do Exist	330
Funding and Client Base	330
Human Trafficking	331
Immigrant Victims	333
"In the News" Box 12.1	334
Cultural Competency	335
New Developments in Victim Services	338
Restorative Justice Initiatives	338
"In the News" Box 12.2	340
Psychology Class Hopes to Implement Restorative Justice	340
Sexual Assault Response Teams (SART)	342
Professional Profile 12.2	343
Family Justice Centers ("One-Stop Shops")	346
Hot Topics	348
Crime Victims in Disasters	348
Using Social Media to Assist Crime Victims	349
Victims in Mass Casualties	351
Future Considerations	352
Remaining Gaps in Service to Victims	352
Professional Profile 12.3	353
Movement in the Field	355
Summary and Conclusions	356
Key Terms	357
Discussion Questions	357
Websites for Further Information	357
References	357
Appendix: James Comey's Speech on Police Shootings	363
Index	371

Preface

Welcome to Crime Victimization: A Comprehensive Overview, 2nd edition! This book was created to provide students with a general background of victimology, an understanding of the amount and major types of criminal victimizations and who they affect, a solid introduction to the Victims' Rights Movement and victims' rights legislation, and what victims need to recover from crime. This book also pays particular attention to the strengths and weaknesses that exist in the interactions between criminal justice and non-criminal justice personnel who provide assistance to crime victims in numerous capacities. Throughout this text, students will find profiles of victimologists, victim activists, and victim advocates. The authors are particularly proud of these Professional Profiles, as we believe they provide the reader with an idea about different opportunities for working with crime victims across a wide spectrum of vocations. Within each chapter we have placed profiles of individuals who have contributed to our understanding of crime victims in a way that is consistent with the chapter. Additionally, in almost every chapter we have included news snippets to illustrate important concepts and real-world issues related to the topic of the chapter. These news segments, titled "In the News," provide students with a clear illustration of particular concepts in the real world and help to identify challenges and progress evident in the treatment of crime victims.

This book is divided into four different sections with a total of 12 chapters overall. Section I, "History and Measurement of Victimization," introduces readers to the definitions of victim and victimization, covers the history of victimology, provides the history of addressing crime victimization and the inclusion and exclusion of crime victims overall, and finishes up with a discussion on the continuum of victims' contribution to the crime event and a discussion of victim blaming. Chapter 2 focuses on how we measure victimization, both in the United States and abroad. It is important to view victimization from a global perspective to both identify prevention strategies that eliminate/decrease opportunities for crime but also to understand common patterns of victimization and cultural nuances surrounding what acts are deemed "crimes" and how important they are to different societies.

Section II, "Victimization—Consequences, Forms, and Underrepresented Populations," is the largest section in this book and delves deep into understanding the effects of crime victimization while also providing a comparison for the student on the similarities and differences in victims' responses to specific types of crimes. Chapter 3 focuses on identifying the spectrum of individuals who are affected by a crime and identifies the major categories of harm from which victims try to recover. The chapter discusses long- and short-term effects and opens up a dialogue about what it is that victims need to start healing and moving on from the crime. Chapter 4 focuses attention on UCR Part I offenses specifically and identifies characteristics of “common” victims and “common” offenders, as well as addressing “victimless” crimes and repeat victimization. Chapter 5 shines a spotlight on vulnerable populations and interpersonal violence, as these are the areas in which we see the majority of victim services being implemented. This chapter helps us to see the impact of crime that is perpetrated by those within our closest circles—our families and partnerships. Chapter 6 provides a focus on two types of crime that have been receiving greater attention in the last decade—white-collar crime and workplace violence—and Chapter 7 provides readers with two additional areas receiving more attention as of late—hate crimes and cybercrimes. Students typically read about victimization as a result of street-level crime, but less often do we see a discussion of cybercrime and white-collar crime victims. Because students of criminal justice, sociology, psychology, social work, and other fields will likely engage with crime victims at some point in their careers, it is important to identify all different types of crime victims so we can begin to examine nuances to appropriately aid these individuals.

Section III, “Victims’ Rights,” provides an in-depth review of the history of the Victims’ Rights Movement starting with a discussion in Chapter 8 of important legislation that has come from the efforts of victim activists, victimologists, and victim advocates. Chapter 9 provides students with a description of some of the most important pieces of victims’ rights legislation that have been implemented in the United States and traces victimology history through the decades, identifying important events and organizational creations across time.

Section IV, “Working with Victims and Next Steps,” introduces the reader to how victims are treated by the various professions that provide services to them after the crime has occurred. In Chapter 10, the focus is on the interaction between criminal justice personnel and victims—identifying the strengths and challenges within these relationships. In Chapter 11 the text focuses on individuals who work with crime victims in a victim advocacy-type capacity and in other areas that victims commonly seek assistance, including medical services, psychological/counseling services, and faith-based assistance. This chapter also addresses common challenges to assisting crime victims faced by victim advocates and discusses both the positive and negative aspects the media brings to crime incidents and their treatment of crime victims. The final chapter, Chapter 12, highlights burgeoning issues for victim advocates and victimologists identified by the Office for Victims of Crime and the National Center for Victims of Crime. Challenges experienced by special groups of victims, such as victims with disabilities, rural victims, human trafficking victims and immigrant victims (legal and illegal), and victims of mass casualty incidents are discussed, as is the focus on cultural competency for victim advocates. New developments in victim services are highlighted to keep the student abreast of progress in the field, including restorative justice initiatives and the importance of collaborative efforts in victim response, such as Sexual Assault Response Teams and Family Justice Centers. The chapter ends with an introduction of hot topics, such as victimization during disasters and the use of social media to prevent crime and reach out to the public, and a discussion of future considerations such as remaining gaps in service to victims and glimpses into areas upon which victim advocacy and victimology fields are focusing.

The authors are particularly proud of presenting you the second edition of Crime Victimization. In this new version, students will find updated crime victimization statistics throughout this textbook (to reflect the most recent year available to us—2015) and added information on areas not previously addressed, such as sibling on sibling violence, the It's On Us movement, crime against transgender individuals, and victimization by the criminal justice system. Additionally, we've highlighted the topic of mass casualties of violent crime and the efforts of the National Center for Victims of Crime to provide financial assistance to the victims of those crimes and their families.

The overall goal of this book is to provide a history of victimology, victimization, and victims' rights, while also highlighting the needs of victims and illustrating what those who work with crime victims in any capacity can do to positively impact the lives of those victims with whom they come into contact.

Acknowledgments

The authors would like to thank Carolina Academic Press, specifically Beth Hall, who believed in this project from the start and supported our vision for a textbook on crime victimization wholeheartedly. We are forever indebted to photographer Kaitlyn Barlow for creating such an extraordinary image for both editions of Crime Victimization; she truly helped us make our vision real. Additionally, we would like to acknowledge Grace Pledger for creating such an amazing book cover and for the incredible patience and guidance shown to us in the process of putting the book together.

We would like to thank our family and friends for providing us with the support needed to continue our efforts to add to the conversation on victimology.

We remain in awe of the victimologists, criminal justice practitioners, and victim advocates who are out in the world trying to make life better for crime victims. A special thank you must go out to Anne Seymour, a woman whose impact on the field of victim advocacy is immeasurable. Her support and guidance on the first edition of this text meant the world to us and we are so grateful she was willing to provide us with her profile so students across the nation can learn of her great works.

We would also like to recognize the trials and tribulations faced by victims of crime in general, and pay our respects to the people working on the front lines to help victims find justice and heal from the acts perpetrated against them. We hope this text will guide future victimologists, criminal justice agents, victim advocates, and all others who work with victims in any capacity to constantly strive to serve crime victims to the best of their abilities and to know that their efforts are noticed and appreciated.

About the Authors

Professor Elizabeth Quinn Wright received bachelor's degrees in psychology and social welfare from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She earned a master of arts and PhD from Sam Houston State University in August 2004 and began her academic career at Fayetteville State University (FSU), which allowed her to pursue her interest in victimology through research, service, and teaching in immeasurable ways. After eleven years in FSU's Department of Criminal Justice she shifted gears and became a faculty member in the Department of Criminal Justice Administration at Middle Tennessee State University (MTSU). At FSU, she created victimology courses at both the undergraduate and graduate level and has recently proposed an undergraduate victimology course at MTSU. Her interests include victimology and victim's studies, police-community relations and the problem-oriented police officer, spatial analysis of fear of crime and police satisfaction, stress management, and the criminal justice response to disasters. Professor Wright has worked as a corrections liaison with incarcerated boys and girls. Additionally, she worked for a number of years as a rape crisis hotline counselor and support group facilitator and continued her victim advocacy work through the Rape Crisis Volunteers of Cumberland County organization from 2007–2011. In addition to responding to crisis line calls and as an emergency room companion, she served as a member of the board of directors for four years, including appointments as board treasurer and board secretary for three of those years, was a primary grant writer for the organization, and assisted with training and fundraising efforts. In her new state of Tennessee, she has been honored to work with two excellent victim service agencies in the middle Tennessee region.

Professor Wright has worked on projects exploring fear of crime and citizen satisfaction with police for the Fayetteville Police Department, exploring availability and utilization of victim services for domestic violence victims in four counties within North Carolina, evaluating a self-defense program for victims of sexual assault, and assessing teaching at the undergraduate level in criminal justice. She has been published in Women & Criminal Justice, Applied Psychology in Criminal Justice, Contemporary Justice Review, ACJS Assessment Forum, and Crime Prevention and Community Safety and has written five book chapters exploring different victimological and victims' rights issues, including a problem-oriented policing approach to repeat victimization, and a technical report on the victimization experience presented to the Texas State Legislature.

Professor Sara Brightman earned an undergraduate degree in sociology and women's studies from Central Michigan University. She earned her master's and PhD in sociology from Western Michigan University and has been working in the Department of Criminal Justice at Fayetteville State University since August 2009. Professor Brightman's areas of interest include state and corporate crime as well as the victims of state and corporate crimes. She teaches Victimology (at the undergraduate and graduate levels), Comparative Criminal Justice, and Race, Class and Gender in Criminal Justice. She has also taught Senior Seminar in Criminal Justice and a number of undergraduate core courses. Other areas of interest include international law, human rights, women's rights, social movements, and criminological theory.

Professor Brightman has conducted research on state crimes by police and military in Nigeria as well as state crimes by police and the judicial system in Pakistan. Her recent research focused on eugenics and state crime restorative justice in North Carolina, and her most recent publications can be found in the British Journal of Criminology and Contemporary Justice Review. Professor Brightman's dissertation addressed the systematic nature of sexual violence against women committed by United States actors, focusing on the military, police, corrections officers, and border control agents.